Make Connections Across Energy Markets
Crude Oil, Natural Gas, NGLs, and Refined Fuels

Register Now >>

The North American energy landscape has seen significant shifts in production, infrastructure and pricing for crude oil, natural gas and NGLs over the past few years. Completing the Trans Mountain Pipeline expansion (TMX) has enhanced Canada's ability to export crude globally while growing natural gas production is driving new momentum in LNG export opportunities from the West Coast to Asia. Infrastructure developments within Canada have strengthened the Great White North's role in global energy trade, creating new opportunities and reshaping supply chains.

Yet, the market is constantly changing and today geopolitics and the potential impact of tariffs weigh heavily on the relationship between Canada and the U.S., North America's two producing heavyweights. Over the two-day, in-person School of Energy conference, we won't just tell you what's happening — we'll explain why markets behave the way they do and equip you with the tools (a suite of hands-on Microsoft Excel models) to track key trends yourself. You'll have the chance to participate in Q&A sessions and discussions with RBN faculty and key midstream players, while also connecting with other energy professionals at our evening networking event.
